

ALL ENTERED FOR ROOSEVELT

Candidates For Delegates in Ohio
Congressional Districts.

BIND THEMSELVES IN WRITING

Brought Out by Roosevelt Clubs and Organizations in the Various Counties of the State—Predicted That Ohio Will Follow in the Wake of the Great States of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Nebraska and Oregon.

BY ALLEN E. BEACH.

Columbus, O., April 23.—(Special.)—Roosevelt candidates for delegates to the Chicago convention have been entered in every congressional district in Ohio. With them have been entered Roosevelt candidates for alternates to the national convention and Roosevelt candidates for presidential electors, the delegates and alternates to represent the majority of the Republicans in each of the 21 districts in joining in the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt at Chicago, the electors to register at Washington the vote of Ohio for Roosevelt in November.

Each of the Roosevelt primary candidates has been qualified by petitions duly signed by Roosevelt Republicans. Each of the candidates for Roosevelt delegates has pledged himself in writing to vote for Roosevelt. Every man in the list is a man of honor. He will keep his promise. The one way permitted to Republican voters in this state to express their wish that Roosevelt be nominated is to vote May 21 for the Roosevelt candidates for delegates in each congressional district.

They have been brought out by Roosevelt clubs and organizations in the various counties in 19 of the 21 districts. Leaders in the Roosevelt movement made no organization in the First and Second districts (Hamilton county), in deference to the request of Colonel Roosevelt not to encourage opposition to President Taft at his home, Cincinnati. They even positively discouraged it, but local admirers of Roosevelt insisted on filing names of candidates. The entries for delegates in the 21 districts are:

First—Z. T. DeMar, Cincinnati; A. O. Zwick, Cincinnati.

Second—Otto H. G. Lippert, Westwood; John G. Reed, Elmwood Place.

First and Second districts—(Cincinnati).

Third—Ex-Mayor Abe Rothwell, Hamilton; Charles W. Folkerth, Dayton.

Fourth—Carl D. Jones, Greenville; Dr. J. C. Pence, Lima.

Fifth—Allen Bybee, Paulding; Frank Carlo, Defiance.

Sixth—Judge R. J. Shawhan, Lebanon; W. H. Baum, Batavia.

Seventh—Dr. J. W. Means, Troy; Isaac K. Funderburgh, New Carlisle.

Eighth—Norman L. MacLachlan, Findlay; Lewis Slack, Delaware.

Ninth—George E. Hardy, Toledo; Carl D. Finch, Bowling Green.

Tenth—Phil M. Streich, Portsmouth; Sherman Eagle, Gallipolis.

Eleventh—Henry Zenner, Athens; James Thomas, Logan.

Twelfth—Carl T. Webber, Columbus; King G. Thompson, Columbus.

Thirteenth—Thomas P. Dewey, Clyde; Karl J. Gugler, Gallon.

Fourteenth—Arthur L. Garford, Lorain; H. G. Hammond, Mt. Vernon.

Fifteenth—David L. Melick, Roseville; Arthur C. Smith, Bysville.

Sixteenth—Cook Sanford, Bellair; Emmett E. Ersking, Steubenville.

Seventeenth—Judge Enos S. Souers, New Philadelphia; Andrew S. Mitchell, Newark.

Eighteenth—Dr. Harry A. March, Canton; Emil Anderson, Youngstown.

Nineteenth—Edwin Seedhouse, Akron; W. J. Beckley, Ravenna.

Twentieth—Joseph H. Speddy, Cleveland; Arthur D. Aylard, Medina.

Twenty-first—J. W. Conner, Cleveland; John J. Sullivan, Cleveland.

Expectation of the election of a solid Roosevelt delegation from Ohio has mounted high, following Roosevelt's sweep of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Nebraska and Oregon in direct primaries in which the voters had freedom to express without hindrance their presidential preference. The Illinois result, a two to one victory for Roosevelt, the official vote being: Roosevelt, 266,911; Taft, 128,501; La Follette, 42,317, sent Roosevelt stock skyrocketing.

The Pennsylvania result, totally unexpected, for Senator Boies Penrose, state boss and Taft leader, had boasted Roosevelt would have less than a dozen delegates, was the election of 87 pledged Roosevelt delegates and 9 unpledged delegates. That result was a stunning blow to the Taft cause.

Its effect on the Taft candidacy was admitted to be "deplorable" by Senator Crane of Massachusetts as he left the White House after a talk about it with the president. From the silent Crane that meant as much as the admissions of other Taft leaders that the president's renomination had become wholly improbable.

Last week Roosevelt swept Nebraska and Oregon in presidential preference primaries, in Nebraska beating Taft 2 to 1 and polling a majority of 10,000 over Taft and La Follette combined. In Oregon, Roosevelt's majority over Taft and La Follette was more than 5,000.

Its effect on the candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt was to foreshadow his nomination at Chicago. Its effect was even greater than that. It foreshadowed his election in November.

The inception of the Roosevelt movement was the belief of many Republicans that Taft could not be re-elected; that he had no grasp on the country, which was out of sympathy with him, and looked askance on his close association with and support by reactionaries. The pre-convention campaign strengthened that notion to the point of confirmation in the public mind. Roosevelt's candidacy provoked a storm of opposition voiced by high-brow editors, who charged him with everything from insanity to high treason. Taft supporters said Roosevelt could not more be elected than could Taft.

Postmaster-made delegates in the south and machine-made delegates in the north were stacked up and pointed to as an anti-Roosevelt expression of party sentiment.

Then came genuine expression with the voting in Illinois and Pennsylvania. All the power of organized politics, the Republican state machines, was against Roosevelt. So was the press, the notable exceptions being one paper in Chicago, one in Philadelphia and one in Pittsburgh. The newspapers had voiced every possible attack on Roosevelt. Every imaginable objection to him as again President had been impressed on the Republican voters of Illinois and Pennsylvania. Yet they voted they wanted him and him only.

They voted that sentiment by the thousands. They voted it overwhelmingly. Roosevelt rode out the storm his candidacy had provoked. He would face no greater storm as the nominee of the Chicago convention in the national campaign. Roosevelt can be elected.

Said the Philadelphia Press, a strong Taft paper: "The people rule this country when they choose to do so. That they want leaders whom they can trust is the lesson of Saturday's primaries in Pennsylvania."

In legal, safeguarded primaries in four states, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Oregon, Taft was in head-on collision with public opinion. The Republicans of those heavily Republican states elected a total of 196 delegates to the Chicago convention. Of this number President Taft secured but 11, the ratio against him being more than 17 to 1.

How Roosevelt appeals to people everywhere, significant, too, of the attitude of wage-workers in Ohio, is the declaration of the Union Reporter of Canton, official organ of the Ohio Federation of Labor locals in three counties:

"The fact that every boss and machine politician is against the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt is in itself a sufficient guarantee that he will, in case of nomination and election, stand for the rights of the people. It is the strongest proof that Colonel Roosevelt is considered dangerous to the bosses, who fear the loss of power and revenues."

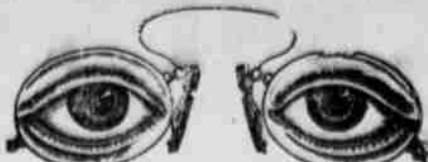

"But the masses, who find themselves more and more oppressed and in need of protection, know that Theodore Roosevelt will be fighting their cause and that is the reason Illinois gave such a tremendous majority for the colonel, and that will be the reason other states, unhampered by politicians and officeholders, will show their preferences in the same way."

From Washington comes the news that Senator Burton was amazed and shocked at the overwhelming defeat of Taft in Pennsylvania, where he spoke, and may stay out of the Taft campaign in Ohio, which he was expected to lead. The four Ohio congressmen who had declared for Taft also are reported to be perturbed, foreseeing now a Roosevelt sweep in Ohio. The Pennsylvania verdict followed a conference at which the Ohio colony of officeholders in Washington had decided to have the Ohio state convention, which they supposed they would control, explicitly condemn Roosevelt by resolution.

In his speech as temporary chairman of the convention Senator Burton was delegated to pave the way for officially reading Roosevelt out of the party by resolution of the convention. In the panic caused by the news from Pennsylvania the conference overlooked making any change in this program, which is still the official Taft one.

In continued effort to make involved and cumbersome the expression of the voters' wishes, county committees under Taft guidance have called county conventions to select delegates to the state convention. Approximately two-thirds of the counties will choose state delegates by convention and one-third by direct primary. In some counties the Taft organizations have endeavored to make it difficult for the Roosevelt voters to get action by providing for an unusually large county convention. In Hancock county the apportionment was fixed at one delegate for each 10 votes for Harding, making a convention of 365 delegates, over one-third the size of the state convention, and incidentally making it necessary for opponents of the Taft organization to circulate petitions for 365 delegates.
